

Trelill Holy Well

2013 saw the culmination of a project to restore and repair the holy well at Trelill, near Helston.

The well is located in the bottom of a shallow valley, beside a stream, and until three years ago was in serious declining condition due to the combined problems of flooding, scrub growth and deteriorating masonry. With the help and co-operation of the new owner of the site, work began in 2011 on a plan to restore the monument.

The first steps were to clear the scrub from the roof and walls and a massive build-up of silt from behind the well. In addition, volunteers removed a stone hedge from across the stream, whose blocked culvert was causing flooding and a build-up of silt. With the fragile state of the well then fully revealed, a plan for consolidation and protection could be developed.

The final project to restore the well took place in 2013, co-ordinated by Cornwall Council's Historic Environment project team's Monument Management Scheme and funded by owner Mark Rowe, the Monument Management Scheme and Wendron Parish Council with the help of an enthusiastic team of volunteers.

The first step was to consolidate and repair the structure itself, before finally installing a fence to protect the monument. The stone roof was covered in turf to give it a weatherproof and attractive finish. As a final step, way-marking signs were installed and Mark Rowe laid out a small parking area and permissive path to the well. The well will be maintained in the future by Wendron Parish Council, with help from the volunteers.

Conservation work complete; the Holy Well has been repointed and the roof turfed; it sits within a small fenced enclosure, the stream flows gently by.

WENDRON NEIGHBOURHOOD PLAN

THIS IS YOUR CHANCE!

If you live, work or have a connection in Wendron Parish, this is the time to decide the local, social, economic, development and environmental issues are, and form policies for inspection and adoption which must be taken into account when the local authority is determining planning applications.

Questionnaires will be found at and returned to pubs, clubs, village halls, schools, post offices, churches, chapels etc.

PLEASE play your part by answering what you can and returning them to any collection point by 30 September 2015.

The next step will be a public consultation opportunity to look at the results and suggest how we might turn them into policies.
